For the attention of

Dear Sir,

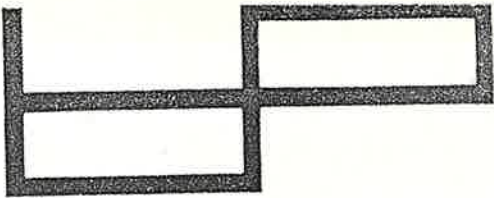

You will no doubt recall that last year this Trust undertook emergency excavations on the site of a roman villa at Llandough, near Cardiff, and that during the course of the work various items of archaeological interest were recovered.

Within the next few months our study of this material will be completed, consequently as the Wales and West Housing Association are the owners of this material we would welcome your instructions as to its disposal. We should draw to your attention that no items of monetary value were found at Llandough.

For information, the National Museum of Wales has indicated that it is prepared to accept the Llandough 'finds'.

Yours faithfully,

Glamorgan Gwent Archaeological Trust Ltd

Dear Sirs,

We have received confirmation from the Wales and West Housing Association Ltd that they are agreeable to your proposals to transfer the material resulting from your activities at Llandough Farm to the National Museum of Wales.

They have asked that the donation be subject to their agreement to a suitable collection being made available for their exhibition in September of this year which was the subject of earlier correspondence with you.

As soon as I have received further information regarding this exhibition I will contact you again.

The Association have asked whether any report is in existence regarding your conclusions on the Roman Villa find at Llandough Farm and we wonder if such a report exists whether it could be made available to the Association for inclusion in the National Journal of the Voluntary Housing Movement, The National Federation of Housing Associations.

Yours faithfully,
